The Funeral and Cremation Services Council of Saskatchewan was created by legislation that was passed November 1st, 2001 in order to regulate the provision of funeral, cremation and transfer services. The Funeral and Cremation Services Council is made up of elected industry and publicly appointed members. The Council is able to set standards of practice and procedures for funeral homes, crematoria and transfer services.

Council is responsible for the continuing education, licensing and regulating of funeral directors, embalmers and salespersons in the province and establishing competency and service standards. Council's responsibility extends to the conduct of members, consumer protection and investigation of public complaints.
